

Baking Powder Economy

The manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder have always declined to produce a cheap baking powder at the sacrifice of quality.

The Royal is made from pure grape cream of tartar, and is the embodiment of all the excellence possible to be attained in the highest class baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price, and is cheaper at its price than any similar article.

Samples of mixtures made in imitation of baking powders, but containing alum, are frequently distributed from door to door, or given away in grocery stores. Such mixtures are dangerous to use in food, and in many cities their sale is prohibited by law. Alum is a corrosive poison, and all physicians condemn baking powders containing it.

ANOTHER DECREASE SHOWN

Falling Off in the Number of Liquor License Applications. No tabulation of the liquor license applications had been made as yet, but Clerk of the Courts Daniels, speaking off-hand, expresses the belief that there will be another falling off this year, just as there has been each succeeding year since 1897. No remonstrances have been filed as yet, and no word has reached the court house of any being on the way. One Prohibition attorney, who appears most frequently in support of remonstrances, said to a Tribune reporter yesterday that he had been consulted twice last week regarding the presentation of remonstrances, but when the parties learned what the costs would foot up to they withdrew promising to call again. They had not called again up to yesterday.
